Extension of Scholarship Tenure

Japanese Government Scholarship students who have an excellent academic record, wish to proceed to higher education, and meet the relevant requirements set by MEXT may apply for an extension of their scholarship tenure. However, rigorous screening is conducted for this and applicants are not assured of approval.

Kumamoto University seeks applications in December, screens the applicants, and then nominates qualified applicants to MEXT in January. The results of the MEXT screening process are reported to the university in February or March.

Teacher training students, Japanese studies students, and Japan-Korea Joint Science and Engineering Students Exchange Program students may not apply for an extension of their scholarship tenure.

Qualified Applicants for Extension of Scholarship Tenure

●Research Students

1. When advancing from research student to Master's / Doctoral course student:
Those who have been research students for 2 years or less including the preparatory education period
Extendable term : Standard term of study for each regular course
2. When advancing from Master's course to Doctoral course:
Those who were received as research students and did not repeat the relevant Master's course
Extendable term : Standard term of study for each regular course

●Undergraduate Students

1. When advancing from undergraduate student to Master's course student:
Those who were received as undergraduate students and did not repeat the relevant undergraduate course.
Those who were received as undergraduate students and who are not medical or dental school graduates.

●Special extension of scholarship tenure

- 1) Japanese Government Scholarship students who were received via Japanese embassy recommendations as undergraduate students and then admitted to Master's courses.
- 2) Japanese Government Scholarship students who were received via Japanese embassy recommendations as college of technology students or professional training college students and then admitted to undergraduate courses at university.
In the above two cases, the student may apply for an extension of scholarship tenure provided that they can demonstrate outstanding academic achievement. Kumamoto University seeks applicants in December, screens them, and nominates qualified applicants to MEXT in January.

*International students who are enrolled in science and engineering undergraduate schools in Japan under the Japan-Korea Joint Science and Engineering Students Exchange Program cannot apply for an extension of this Japanese Government Scholarship when they continue on to Master's programs at university.

Change of Course/School

Japanese Government Scholarship students are normally not permitted to change their courses or schools. However, if changing courses or schools is regarded as unavoidable because of the student's major field, MEXT may decide to allow the change, depending on the results of consultation.

Japanese Government Scholarship students by embassy recommendation and by domestic selection may be permitted to transfer to another university when they apply for an extension of scholarship tenure, However, Japanese Government Scholarship students by university recommendation are not allowed to transfer to another university.

Enrollment Confirmation

Japanese Government Scholarship students are required to sign a form to confirm enrollment at a designated office by a designated day of every month so that their monthly stipend will be transferred. Please note that if you cannot sign the form and your enrollment cannot be confirmed for the whole month, your stipend for that month will not be provided. If you cannot sign the form due to travel to your home country, attendance at an academic conference or any other reason, be sure to notify the International Student Office or the concerned office in your campus by the previous month.

1. Research students who have completed both their period of study abroad at university and their research
2. Teacher training students who have completed both their period of study abroad at university and their teacher training
3. Undergraduate students and students in the Japan-Korea Joint Science and Engineering Students Exchange Program who have completed their period of study abroad at university and graduated from the university

4. Japanese studies students who have completed both their period of study abroad at university and their Japanese studies course

International Student Office will inform the eligible students about the application for the return airplane ticket around December of the previous year for students returning in March, and around June for those returning in September.

Japanese Language Education

The Center for International Education offers non-credit beginner level Japanese Language courses for international students and researchers. Also intermediate and advanced Japanese Language classes are offered as accredited class to the international students. Although some classes may have limitations such as entrance qualifications or a limited number of lessons, the center's Japanese classes meet the needs of almost all international students and researchers at Kumamoto University who wish to learn Japanese.

For the schedule of Japanese classes and other details, please refer to the Guidebook of Japanese Classes which is distributed at the Center for International Education on “Japanese Language” section on the official university website.

●Intensive Japanese Course

This course is designed for Japanese Government Scholarship research students with an embassy recommendation, students in the Teacher Training Program. They can enroll at Center for International Education as Japanese Language Trainees and take 6-month intensive Japanese courses as preparatory education before their enrollment in each department as Degree-seeking students or research students. Please contact the International Student Office for details.

※Students in the Japan-Korea Joint Higher Education Student Exchange Program is to be announced later.

<https://www.city-kumamoto-jutaku.jp/se/>

Residence Status

The staff at the International Student Office and the coordinators in each campus help international students with required immigration procedures.

- Extension of Period of Stay

Japanese Government Scholarship students can stay in Japan on a “Student (ryugaku)”^{} visa for three months, six months, one year, one year and three months, two years, two years and three months, three years, three years and three months, four years, four years and three months. If you wish to stay longer to complete your studies, you need to apply for an extension of your stay. You can submit the application from three months before the date of expiration. The staff of the International Student Office and the coordinator in Honjo campus will assist you with this extension procedure.

- Change of Status of Residence

Be sure to consult with the International Student Office beforehand if you are planning on changing your status of residence from “Student” to another status to stay in Japan even after the period of the scholarship (after graduation.) Once you change the status of residence during the scholarship period, you will be disqualified as a scholar.

- Re-entry Permit

Foreigners in possession of a valid passport and residence card who will be re-entering Japan within one year of their departure to continue your activities in Japan (*) will, in principal, not be required to apply for a re-entry permit. Foreign nationals who possess a valid passport and resident card may leave Japan and return within one year without, as a rule, needing to apply for a re-entry permission. This is called the “Special Re-entry System.”

(*) If your period of stay expires within 1 year after your departure, please ensure that you re-enter Japan before the expiration of your period of stay.
